

Telemarketers call during family time in the privacy of one's own home. Try to be pleasant to a telemarketer while saying no. Say it enough and the majority hang up on you. The residents of the State of Indiana have chosen to significantly reduce these annoying, unrequested telephone calls. If the federal government overrides our decision the alternative is to remove telephone service in the home and use cell phones - which you can turn off if you don't want calls. I will remove my phone if the law is overturned.
